

PORTRAITURE PROJECT
DUE: MONDAY, APRIL 19

Using your new-found knowledge of how to mask physical flaws in photographs, your next project will put that wisdom to use. Your goal is to produce 10 very attractive individual portraits of various people, as many as possible. After silently determining what physical feature might not translate well onto film, you will pose and position that person until he/she looks best, and then of course you will take a couple pictures. Keep in mind the basics of portraits (light ratios, backgrounds, direction and type of light, and camera height).

Each portrait is worth a maximum of 10 points. Projects turned in late will receive the standard deadline penalty, which is 10 points off for every day late.

PORTRAITURE PROJECT
DUE: MONDAY, APRIL 19

Using your new-found knowledge of how to mask physical flaws in photographs, your next project will put that wisdom to use. Your goal is to produce 10 very attractive individual portraits of various people, as many as possible. After silently determining what physical feature might not translate well onto film, you will pose and position that person until he/she looks best, and then of course you will take a couple pictures. Keep in mind the basics of portraits (light ratios, backgrounds, direction and type of light, and camera height).

Each portrait is worth a maximum of 10 points. Projects turned in late will receive the standard deadline penalty, which is 10 points off for every day late.